Facebook Bible Study of the Gospels – starting on Epiphany Sunday, January 6, 2020 -

Lectio Divina is an ancient practice of the church in which Christians "prayed the scriptures." In this study, each participant will individually read a chapter of scripture each day. We remember that very few people could read in the early church and most people encountered scripture by hearing it. Participants listened carefully, not so they could "learn" in an academic sense. Rather, they listened for how God might be speaking to them in that moment. Read one chapter each day beginning in the book of Matthew Chapter 1, Monday through Friday, and post your thoughts for discussion in the comment feed of each day. No readings/posts on Saturdays, Sundays, or holidays. This gives you a chance to catch up because life happens. A private Facebook page entitled: McEachern Reading of the Gospels as the Administrator and make Stacie Barrow another Administrator.
